

Location

This year's Equity Conference is being held on the campus of Michigan Technological University in Houghton, Michigan. Michigan Technological University is located in the beautiful Keweenaw Peninsula of Michigan's Upper Peninsula. We are near Lake Superior and are surrounded by rivers, lakes, and thousands of acres of forests. Houghton and its twin-city, Hancock, have about 12,000 residents.

MTU, with about 6,300 students, has degree programs in engineering and sciences, forestry, business, liberal arts, social and computer science, education, and two- or four-year technology studies. Graduate studies and research are two other vital University endeavors. MTU graduate programs leading to masters' and doctoral degrees feature advanced instruction and research in a variety of academic fields.

Michigan Technological University, Houghton, Michigan

Summary of the Program

Michigan Technological University is proud to host the 13th Annual Equity in the Classroom Conference from April 27 - 29, 2003. The theme for this year's event, "Educational Leadership in a Shared World: Strategies That Work" is threaded throughout the sessions. In addition to the twenty-one sponsoring institutions, representatives from Michigan community colleges and schools are invited to join us. Please share this brochure with others who you feel would benefit from attending the conference. We look forward to hosting you and your colleagues this year!
